The Military Engineering Heritage Company

The Military Engineering Heritage Company has been formed to assist the operation, management and development of the Australian Army Museum of Military Engineering located at Moorebank. The Museum holds the historical collections of both the Royal Australian Engineer (RAE) and the Royal Australian Survey (RA Svy) Corps. Additionally, it now also contains a selection of the historical collection from the Australian Water Transport Association (AWTA).

The Military Engineering Heritage Company is managed by a Board of Directors elected from the Company membership. The diagram below shows the relationship between the Company and associated organisations.

Company membership is available in two categories; Sponsor members support the Companies activities through an annual subscription. Active members are similar but also assist in the Company and Museum operations through volunteer work. Membership is open to anyone with an interest in assisting the Museum.

Become a member by completing the membership form on the back of this flyer. Forward the form with payment/payment details to the Company at the address on the form. Membership applications taken within the first half of the financial year will be valid for that year unless otherwise notified. Members will receive an ID card and the regular company newsletter. Donations are tax deductible and directly support the activities of the Australian Army Museum of Military Engineering.
